"AYLESBURY DUCKS SHOOT FOR CHART SUCCESS"

As Aylesbury United Football Club approaches the end of their 110th season, the Club continues to promote their personal campaign to 'Bring The Ducks Home' and highlight their current homeless plight.

The Ducks currently play their 'home' games at Chesham United's ground, but need to return to Aylesbury as soon as possible to be financially viable and easily accessible to its current fans and for a future generation of supporters. The Club also needs a base to support its Youth development, Reserves and Ladies section.

To continue on their campaign trail, popular local musician Loz Jones, together with local record label Jam Central Records have joined forces to try and help boost the profile of this campaign and bring awareness to a larger audience.

Currently scheduled for Monday 21 April 2008, the enhanced CD Single entitled "Bring The Ducks Home", (which also features a brilliant animated video of the same name) will be released as both a physical single aswell as a digital download, and will be available in all good record shops and download sites.

Proceeds from the sales of the single will be donated back to Aylesbury United to help them continue to fund their campaign and continue to build support and media attention to assist their cause.

Aylesbury United Vice Chairman John Newman says;

"Everyone at the Club is really excited about the release of the new single. Loz has really captured the essence of the campaign, what we are fighting for to highlight its fantastic 110 year history, and to bring the Club back to Aylesbury for the future generation.

I'm sure the 'Bring the Ducks Home' theme will be sung by everyone who hears it, as it's so catchy and will help generate even more support for the campaign".

Loz Jones adds;

"It's only when a football club is no longer around, that it becomes obvious how important it is to its town, just ask those that have lost their clubs! Fortunately for the moment, Aylesbury United has only moved down the road but they need to be back in the town that they represent so well and with real pride. I'm really pleased that we can do something to help.

JAM CENTRAL RECORDS

I hope this song raises the profile and awareness of the current problem and encourages Aylesbury people to push for a new ground back in Aylesbury and get behind the team on Saturday afternoons."

Other local celebrities who are supporters of the 'Bring The Ducks Home' campaign include Aylesbury legend John Otway, who was only too pleased to be photographed wearing the campaign T-Shirt and Baseball cap.

Although he confessed that he was not a football-mad fan, he was very interested in the Club's current plight, and was aware of the condition of their old ground, having seen the clips on Bucks TV. As he no longer lives locally, he has noticed the rapid expansion of the town, and admitted that the Football Club should be back where it belongs within the local community. He has pledged to help the campaign in anyway he can.

Another famous face and supporter is that of original Marillion vocalist and songwriter FISH, who returned 'home' to Aylesbury last summer to headline the Hobble on the Cobbles live music festival in Market Square.
